Corderoy restructures to meet the challenges of the 21st Century

International Chartered Quantity Surveyor and Cost Consultant Corderoy has recently restructured into five discrete companies in order to meet the challenges of the future.

George Corderoy & Co was founded in 1780 and can demonstrate a tradition of delivering excellence to its diverse and expanding client base. The restructure will provide more focus for Corderoy to keep ahead of changes in the industry. It will also allow it to continue to operate at the cutting edge of cost consultancy, whilst creating unrivalled opportunities for its dynamic and flexible 200+ staff.

The group restructure incorporates five companies, which are:

Corderoy Infrastructure Limited

Encompassing the firm's vast expertise in highways, rail, utilities and civil engineering projects.

Corderoy Project Services Ltd

Cost and project management consultancy on both private and public sector building and development contracts.

Corderoy Contract Services Ltd.

Provides technical and legal support including expert services, dispute management and all aspects of contractual advice.

Corderoy Energy Ltd.

Offers a variety of services on power generation, nuclear decommissioning, heavy engineering, oil, gas and petrochemical projects.

Corderoy International Ltd.

Continues to deliver the Practice's core consultancy services to every corner of the world.

Main Board Director John Wedlake says of the restructure.....

"For the past five years or so, Corderoy has operated through various work sectors to focus our activities on specific areas of the industry. This structure has proved successful both with our clients and with our staff; however we have now decided to take a further step in this process by restructuring into five discrete companies. This will provide greater focus and keep us ahead of changes within the industry. This exciting development of our business will also be an opportunity for staff at all levels to progress within the Corderoy group and to benefit from our success, whilst giving us the ability to attract high calibre individuals into the company."

About Corderoy:

Corderoy has grown into a highly respected international practice, and employs over 200 staff, providing creative and viable solutions to the commercial, financial and contractual challenges affecting construction, infrastructure, engineering, process, manufacturing and heavy industry.
